IMED Reflections -Call for Papers

IMED publishes a bi-annual student research journal –Reflections with the key objective to enhance the research skills of the students. This leads to develop more strategic and focused knowledge of subject matter by students and works like finishing school and helps to overcome skill gap. This interdisciplinary journal consists of research papers from different streams like-Marketing, Human Resource, Financial Management, General Management and Information Technology.

We are glad to inform you that the next issue of Reflections is will be published in 23th December 2019.

We invite Research papers for the upcoming issue of Reflections. In order to maintain the quality of journal and attaining the goal of knowledge enhancement, we request the Faculty members to guide the students.

The theme for the issue is “Emerging trends in Business Management and Information Technology“

Last date for Paper submission is: 28th November 2019.

We expect an excellent response with good quality research papers from all Faculty members and students.

All the papers received will be checked for plagiarism and contribution to the body of knowledge. The selected research papers will be considered for publication.

Thank you,

Team-Reflections
